

The following document has been developed by the DEC Program Review Committee as a resource for program developers in states that use the Special Education edTPA as a required assessment. It must be noted that this alignment is based on a program using the edTPA rubrics with no modification and following all edTPA standard protocols.

It is also important to understand that data from the edTPA can contribute to the evidence given for meeting a specific EI/ECSE component but the edTPA, by its nature, will never be sufficient as the sole source of evidence for any single component. If the edTPA is cited as one of the 6 – 8 programmatic assessments it can be used wholistically or Task 1, 2, or 3 may be cited as an individual assessment. However, the edTPA or a part/parts of it can constitute only one of the programmatic assessments. If the whole is used, parts cannot be used; or if a part is used, the whole cannot be used nor can any other part.

An “X” in a column indicates that the specific edTPA rubric provides some support for meeting the identified EI/ECSE Standard Component.

1.0 Candidates understand the impact of different theories and philosophies of early learning and development on assessment, curriculum, instruction, and intervention decisions. Candidates apply knowledge of normative developmental sequences and variations, individual differences within and across the range of abilities, including developmental delays and disabilities, and other direct and indirect contextual features that support or constrain children’s development and learning. These contextual factors as well as social, cultural, and linguistic diversity are considered when facilitating meaningful learning experiences and individualizing intervention and instruction across contexts.
1.1. Candidates demonstrate an understanding of the impact that different theories and philosophies of early learning and development have on assessment, curriculum, intervention, and instruction decisions.	X	X	X	X	X	X
